Dear Mr. Heberton:

Just before Mr. Dulles left on a brief trip out of the city, he asked me to acknowledge and thank you very much for the Western Union National Credit Cards which you were so thoughtful to send him.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely,

My dear Mr. Dulles:

I am enclosing Western Union national credit cards for your convenience in accommodating your official and personal telegrams and cablegrams. These cards may be used anywhere in the United States and will also be honored for messenger errand service.

When traveling, you will find the credit cards most convenient in telegraphing from hotels, airports, railroad stations and trains, as well as through any Western Union office or over the telephone. You need only mention your name and account number, and all charges will be billed directly to the address indicated thereon.

In the event you desire cards for members of your family and will advise me the names under which they should be issued, I shall be happy to forward them to you.

My very best wishes for the success of your administration.

Sincerely yours,

K. W. Heberton
